

than, however, attached no significance to the fact that one of the robbers had his card.

THESE LISTED AS BANDITS.

The men locked up at the bank bandits are:

ALEX BRODIE, 35 years old, New York, the gunman who was stationed at the bank door and held his revolver on the depositors lined up against the wall.

EDDIE MACK, alias Stewart, veteran Chicago pickpocket, who unarmed walked into the cashier's cage and gathered up the $15,000 in greenbacks.

CHARLES KRAMER, alias "Big Felly," of New York, who held the gun on the cashier and directed Mack as to the location of the money drawer.

HARRY FEINE, alias Brandt, of New York, the gunman who "covered" the stenographers and bank employees behind the partition.

HARRY KRAMER, "Little Felly," of New York, who drove the bandit car and waited outside the bank for the robber gang.

HELD AS ACCOMPLICES.

These are held as accomplices in other "jobs" traced to the bank robbery:

JOSEPH FRIEDMAN, news wagon driver, 2404 West Congress street.

MRS. GUSIE FRIEDMAN, his wife.

FRIENDS OF THE ROBBERS.

These are held as friends and witnesses:

MRS. REBECCA FEINE, wife of Harry Feine.

JULIA COSTELLO, said to be Mrs. Charles Kramer.

MRS. MARGARET HOGAN, known as "the Widow Hogan," keeper of the flat at 400 South Western avenue.

CARL HOFFMAN, alias Frank O. Hoffman, said to be an old time "stall" for pickpockets.

CHARLES BURNS, a vagrant.

HARRY UPDATES BROTH.

Charles Kramer was the first of the Kramers to confess. This brought a quick protest from his brother. Handcuffed, they were permitted to converse. They carried on their conversation in Yiddish, but they didn't know a Jewish detective was listening.

"TOM, what did you want to equal for?" demanded Harry Kramer. "I'd have stuck out for six months and you, my own brother, equal on me."

And they would have come to blows if the detectives hadn't separated them.

Mack unfolded the strange tale of plots against the peace of the city and the attempt to upset the war against criminals.

MACK ACCUSES POLITICIANS.

"It's common knowledge on the west side," Mack told the state's attorney, "that a gang of 'guys' and 'stuckups' have been imported from New York to work in Chicago. The men behind it are politicians and policemen. Some of them are coppers who have been dismissed and some of them are on the force now."

"We were told to clean up and we could have all the legal help we wanted."

He said the robbery of the Washington Park bank was only a part of the campaign. The robbery of a saloon in Ashland avenue and the holdup of the Daily News barn two weeks ago, he said, were other jobs of the gang.

FRESH FROM NEW YORK.

Charles said he came to Chicago from New York soon after the Rosenthal murder in New York. He was the intimate "pal" of "Gyp the Blood," "Lefty Louie," "Dago Frank" and "Whitney Lewis."

"They know how to do in New York," he told the state's attorney's assistants and detectives who surrounded him. "But all they know is to equal in Chicago." He seemed pleased because he had been "turned up."

Ten days ago "Big Felly" Kramer obtained a license to conduct a saloon at Twelfth street and Ogden avenue. All the time he and the others of the gang were preparing their campaign. When he had proceeded a short way with his confession he said:

"Come on with me. I'll show you where the rest of the dough is."

In his he wore a diamond stickpin which he said was given him by "Gyp the Blood," the notorious New York gunman, who, with his three aces was electrocuted for the murder of Herman Rosenthal.

He had just told how he spent his time in a flat with "Gyp" and "Lefty Louie" before they were arrested for the murder of the New York gambler.

HIDDEN IN PLAIN.

Lieut. Thomas Sheehan took him to his word regarding the "cache." He handcuffed him to a detective and the trio entered an automobile and drove away.

They went first to Kramer's saloon, where, in the rear, on a shelf under some rubbish, Kramer uncovered a part of the stolen money. Then they drove to his residence at 2427 North Rockwell street.

Kramer knelt down before the piano and, removing one of the panels, he brought out more than $2,600, making in all $5,385 returned.

"HERE IT IS, BOYS!"

Upon their return to the Criminal Court building Lieut. Sheehan held out a bundle tied with a string.

"Here's the rest of the money, boys," and he passed into the state's attorney's office.

The other members of the gang all were found to carry from $100 to $200 each, and it was believed all of the stolen money had been accounted for.

Indictments Due Today.

Mack was the third to confess, and, following his statement in the presence of Mr. Hoyne's assistants, police officers, and reporters, it was announced by Assistant State's Attorney Frank Johnston that indictments will be voted today upon the testimony and confessions which will be offered the grand jury before its adjournment today.

The confession of "Eddie" Mack was the most sensational occurrence of the day after the raid of detectives on the flat at 400 South Western avenue, where the bandits were rounded up.

THE LUCKY TIP.

An element of luck, coupled with real detective work, entered into the efforts of the police to solve the mystery as to the identity of the robbers. Without the luck the bandits probably would still be at large.

Lieut. James Mooney was the lucky man to get the tip. Nobody told him. He lock it from a memorandum book that hung on the wall alongside the telephone in Eddie Mack's flat. This was the lucky tip.

Seeley 4335.

That's the number of the telephone in Joe Friedman's flat at 2404 West Congress street. A squad of detectives swooped down on the Friedman flat after midnight and arrested Friedman and his wife.

Before daybreak Mrs. Friedman, who had stood put up to that time, weakened and told of the flat in Western avenue where the bank robbers were caught.

Enter Eddie Mack.

Eddie Mack had been arrested at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon by Detectives Vaughn and Carton of the bureau.

He was picked up within a block of his home. On being taken before Chief of Detectives Hunt Mack denied all knowledge of the bank robbery. He was questioned for two hours and then locked up.

Acting on instructions from Capt. Hunt, Lieut. Mooney went to Mack's flat late in the evening. He was accompanied by Detective Sergeants Bowler, Hermigle and Cahill.

"Examining everything in the flat," were the captain's instructions to Mooney. "and you might dig up a clue. Closely examine every scrap of paper, for sometimes the most trivial thing leads to a good tip."

On searching the premises Lieut. Mooney espied a small book hanging at the side of the telephone. On opening it he saw it contained several addresses and telephone numbers.

The Strange Incident.

There was only one telephone number in the book which did not have an address. Mooney thought this a strange circumstance.

Leaving a detective on guard in this house, Mooney hastened back to the detective bureau. He reported the circumstance of the telephone number to Capt. Hunt.

"Call up the Seeley manager," said the captain, "and see in whose name is 4335. Also get the address."

The rest was simple. Friedman and his wife were routed from bed and taken to the bureau. Under the grueling of Lieut. Sheehan and Mooney the woman broke down.

Woman Exposes Gang.

"The gang that robbed the bank," she said, "can be found at 400 South Western avenue. Some of them were at our flat early in the evening."

The arrest of Mack, which led to the telephone tip, was ordered by Capt. Hunt two hours after the bank was held up.

The same information regarding Mack was given to State's Attorney Hoyne soon after Capt. Hunt was tipped off.

Lieut. Thomas Sheehan and Detective Sergeant Carton and Vaughn were assigned by Capt. Hunt to "bring in Eddie Mack."

But if the telephone number "4335 Seeley" had not been in the memorandum book the police would still be searching for the robbers.

STORY OF THE RAID

A detailed account of the raid in the "bandit flat" was obtained by reporters for THE TRIBUNE from members of the detective squad sent out by Lieut. Thomas Sheehan. As accurately as possible the detectives told of their movements from the time the order was given at detective headquarters until they returned there with their prisoners and the recovered money.

The apartment occupied by the gang at 400 South Western avenue is on the third floor of a three story flat building.

The Interior View.

The apartment consists of seven rooms arranged as follows:

On the street are two rooms, a bedroom and a living room with door connecting. From the bedroom a door with a pane of red glass looks out upon a hallway. The living room connects with a middle bedroom, which in turn enters upon a dining room to the left, looking to the rear.

Opening off the dining room is another bedroom and the bathroom. In this bedroom is a small closet in which was found a quantity of cash.

In the extreme rear of the flat is a kitchen and a servant's bedroom. At the rear is a covered porch.

The front stairway is not a series of flights one above the other, but one long flight broken by two landings.

In the Landing Force.

The raiding force was composed of Detective Sergeants Vaughn, Hermigle, Cahill, Carton, McCormick, and Gratton. They arrived at the flat building around 6 o'clock in the morning.

Traffic was well under way and Police men Bryan of Western avenue station was on duty. Lieut. Sheehan divided his men into two squads. Vaughn, Cahill, and Hermigle comprised the squad to enter at the front stairs with Lieut. Sheehan, and Carton, McCormick, and Gratton were detailed to ascend the rear stairs and close in.

It was agreed that a blast of a police whistle from either squad would be a signal to the other that they were to rush matters. With this understood the detectives set out to make the arrests.

The Ascent Is Begun.

Vaughn, Cahill, and Hermigle opened the street door and began the ascent of the creaky and seemingly never ending stairway. Simultaneously Carton, McCormick, and Gratton began their climb up the rear stairs. At the time the men in the front had reached the top those at the rear had taken their positions to cut off the retreat and were prepared to close in. Every possible exit, with the exception of one window which opened to a three story leap, was guarded.

Hermigle, Cahill, and Vaughn found themselves in a small hallway off which opened two doors. One was the hall entrance to the front bedroom and the other to the living room. Through the red glass of the bedroom door a lighted lamp could be made out.

Men Leap Out of Bed.

A hasty, whispered conference was held and it was decided to burst through the door into the living room and see if this had any effect upon the possible occupants of the bedroom. Cahill and Hermigle placed their shoulders against the door and with a heave they almost tore it off its hinges.

The noise of the crashing door caused a commotion that could be visualized through the ruby glass of the bedroom door. A window opened and something was thrown out. This was almost simultaneous with the sudden leap out of bed of three men. As the something went out the window Detective Sergeant Hermigle rushed down the stairs. Vaughn and Cahill burst into the living room.

The Honest Newsboy.

George Mintz, 918 South Claremont avenue, is a newsboy who has a stand at Van Buren street and Western avenue.

"I saw something come flying out of the window," said Mintz, "and it landed near me in the street. It looked like an old paper box and I gave it a kick. When I done that I never saw a kick money in my life!"

The twinties and yellowbacks and all kinds of bills was all over the street."

Policemen Takes the Money.

Policemen Brown, who was on duty at the corner, said he was watching some men board a street car when the newsboy came to him.

"He told me he had found a lot of money in the street. I took it from him and said I would turn it in at the station. I didn't know at that time there had been a raid."

"The money was in a paper box, and I saw the newsboy standing there and I went over and talked to the chauffeur. He told me there was a raid, and just then Detective Sergeant Hermigle came up and also told me about it. I told him I would turn the money over to my station, and he explained this was a bureau raid and that the money should go to headquarters. We got in a machine and drove downtown to the bureau."

Three Sleepy Young Men.

While these events were transpiring Cahill and Vaughn stepped quickly into the living room into which they had burst through the broken door. As they did so they confronted three very sleepy young men. They were Harry Brandt, Alex Brodie, and Harry Feine. Feine is known to his intimates as "Pinkie."

The detectives, revolvers in hand, covered them, and they threw up their hands. They were Harry Brandt, Alex Brodie, and Harry Feine. Feine is known to his intimates as "Pinkie."

as he directed the quintet to be taken into the building.

FINDING OF THE AUTO

The automobile alleged to have been used by the robbers was recovered in the afternoon on the south side and was taken to the Criminal court building on orders from the state's attorney's office.

The hood was battered and the car showed indications of hard usage and was covered with mud.

Policeman Lawrence Connell of the Fifth street station found the car under the structure of the South Side Elevated railroad near East Fifth street.

He was the policeman who is believed to have seen the bandits in the car at South Park avenue and East Sixth street, at the southwest entrance of the park, but thought they were "nice young fellows."

He saw the car just outside a barn adjacent to the elevated structure Thursday afternoon, but thought nothing of it. Yesterday morning he again saw the car and had it sent to the station.

"Licenses App'd For."

At the station the car was examined and the police came to the conclusion it was the one used by the bank bandits. The manufacturer's number had been filed off the engine, there was no license plate, only a crude "Licenses App'd For" sign attached to the front axle.

On the car were found figures, out of stencils as follows: "41115."

The only thing found in the car itself, according to the police, was an old newspaper. The car may have belonged to Fred Batterby of 2211 South Halsted street, a salesman.

MYSTERY OF THE GUNS

One of the things which had been puzzling the police was the location of the big revolver which the robbers had with them when they held up the bank.

Light, it is thought, was shed on the problem when two revolvers were found hidden in a pile of broken glass at the saloon of Charles Kramer, at West Twelfth street and Oakley avenue. Another revolver was found at Kramer's home.

In the raid which resulted in the arrest of the alleged bandits, no weapons were found.

CREDIT SHUNTED ABOUT

It was "After you, my dear Alphonse" at the city hall when the capture of the bank robbers became known.

An outsider, inquiring by whom the coup had been effected, would have found himself somewhat baffled.

Chief Healey smilingly declared Capt. Hunt and his subordinates at the detective bureau deserved the credit.

Capt. Hunt maintained State's Attorney Hoyne had turned the trick.

Mayor Thompson bared his fist on his desk with characteristic vigor and demanded that the policemen who made the arrests be produced before him forthwith to be congratulated.

Mayor Fears Court Leniency.

"I want to have a talk with those fellows," said the mayor. "Things seem to be looking up in the police department. We got action all right this time."

"I suppose, however, that it will be the same old story. Politicians will try to retard the wheels of justice and if these men are convicted and sent to prison powerful friends will attempt to have them paroled. There should be no maudlin sentiment in a case like this." Healey brought the detective in.

"These are the men, your honor," was Chief Healey's introduction, "who have cleaned up the Woodlawn case. And they have cleaned it up in a way which, I believe, will fetch convictions."

Praise from the Mayor.

The mayor answered thus: "I just want you men to know that the mayor of Chicago appreciates work like you have done. This is especially true in the present case because the people of Chicago were startled at the boldness and daring of the robbers who held up this bank and also because the robbery followed so closely the robbery of the Cook ticket office."

"I have summoned Capt. Coffin of the civil service commission to discuss with him the substantial reward which I think your work merits. I just wanted you to know the mayor of Chicago appreciates your work."

"According to civil service law," Capt. Coffin answered, "policemen may be advanced only by ascertainment merit, seniority, and answers to examination questions. Merit counts for two out of ten points."

"The law doesn't say anything about delivering the goods, then, does it?" asked the mayor.

"We might give them extra credit for merit in some future examination," said Capt. Coffin.

"Great Work"—Healey.

Chief Healey beamed on all and sundry as he came out of his office after being told the details of the raid.

"I'll see that Capt. Hunt, Lieut. Sheehan, and every one of their men who had a part in this good work are rewarded," he said. "It was a great piece of work, and to Capt. Hunt, I believe, belongs the credit for the deductions that led to the arrest of the pickpockets. His subordinate did splendid work in carrying out the orders of his chief. From what I have learned of the case the evidence against the men is conclusive and the case is solved."

"The work of the detective bureau since the appointment of Capt. Hunt makes me feel that we will clean up most of the crime mysteries before long."

The credit is due Mr. Hoyne," said Capt. Hunt. "It was he who tipped us off on the Mack end of the case, and it was this tip that led to the roundup of the others."

"My hunch that certain pickpockets had turned stickup men seems to have worked out."

BANK BANDITS GRADUATES OF PICKPOCKET LIFE

Eddie Mack and Pretty Daughter Loyal White Sox Fans.

The Washington Park bank bandits are graduates from the ranks of pickpockets. Eddie Mack has tried burglary and once was "settled" for a robbery, but except for these two crimes he had never risen above the level of a pickpocket.

Carl Hoffman, Alex Brodie, and Harry Feine are New York dips. Mack, it is said, came originally from Cincinnati, but has made Chicago his headquarters most of his life.

Mack has lived for several years on the south side. He has a wife and a pretty daughter 10 years old. His wife is in delicate health. He is said to be devoted to his wife and daughter. He and the little girl have been White Sox fans for several years.

Daughter Knows All White Sox.

With his wife and daughter he has been an almost daily attendant at the games at Comiskey park. Many constant patrons of the park will recall the pretty little girl who knew every player on the Sox team by name and was one of the most enthusiastic "rooters" for the home team. Mack often occupied a box with his wife and child. Mack never attended a game alone. All the park policemen knew him and would have picked him up on suspicion if he had been by himself. His daughter removed all suspicion that he was in the park to "work."

Known as "Family Man."

Mack is a neat dresser. He usually has plenty of money and is a free spender. He does not use "dope" of any kind, which is something unusual among men in his line. He drinks in moderation. He is known as something of a "family man," and is content in his home when not picking pockets.

He has no particular "hangouts," according to the police. He loafs on the west side, the north side, or the south side, as he takes a fancy. He is known to have some powerful influences behind him. He has been picked up four times in the last three weeks, but has been let go each time. Certain politicians are said to be his friends. When he gets in "trouble" "fall money" is always forthcoming.

Brodie Elusive "Dip."

Brodie has been much in Mack's company for the last few months. A few weeks ago Mack and Brodie were picked up three times in one week, but were released. Brodie is known as a pickpocket in Chicago. It was said by the police he has been in court eight or nine times in the last six weeks, but always escaped for lack of evidence.

He was sent to Joliet for robbery July 11, 1904, and was paroled in August, 1906. He was returned to Joliet for violation of parole Oct. 3, 1906. He was paroled March 10, 1907, and discharged in October, 1910.

As Joseph Stewart he served three months in the house of correction and was fined $50 for larceny in 1909.

The following year he was again sent to the bidwell for disorderly conduct. He was arrested as a suspect under the name of Albert Schwartz in January, 1912, and as Edward Mack in May, 1912. In the latter case he was fined $100 on a vagrancy charge.

The records of Hoffman, Feine, and Brodie are in the files of the police.

JOY AND CHEERS FILL ALL BERLIN TO HONOR KAISER

Impressive Scenes During the Celebration in Cathedral on the Ruler's Birthday.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT
[Special Cable to Chicago Tribune.]
BERLIN, Jan. 27.—(Delayed.)—Emperor William's birthday ceremony was a festival service at the cathedral opposite the royal palace. Two hours before the service began the streets and squares around the cathedral were packed with people.

From the palaces, art galleries, and bridges were flung the white and black imperial standards, and the buses thronging the way through the crowds were gay with the colors of Prussia, Germany, Austria-Hungary, Turkey, and Bulgaria, and the whole town was bedecked, from Lichtenberg to Grunewald, and the promenades and the shopping streets were thronged with holidaymakers.

The day was filled with numberless celebrations, some of the most elaborate being the festivals at the university, the academy of arts, the city hall, the public schools, the hospitals, and at the colossal wooden statue of Gen. von Hindenburg at the foot of the Avenue of Victory.

Cheering Crowds Fill Street.
Long before the religious service began, the great cathedral bell was booming and the streets were ringing with the cheers of the people as the members of the imperial family and the ambassadors from the allied nations drove up to the portals.

The emperor is at the front, but he was represented at the service by the Crown Princess Cecile, the Princess August Wilhelm, and the empress's brother, Duke Ernst of Schleswig-Holstein. The empress herself attended a private festival service in the royal chapel.

Precisely at 10 o'clock, when the guests bearing special invitations, which were as big as a marriage certificate and bore on one side the plan of the cathedral and a map of the surrounding streets, bridges, and gardens, had seated themselves, the bronze doors were swung open to the public.

Honor to Ailing Soldiers.
Instantly the enormous rotunda was black with people. Not only were all the seats occupied, but the aisles were filled, and hundreds stood throughout the hour and a half service and sermon. In places of honor on each side of the altar sat groups of convalescent soldiers, while the places lower down were occupied by members of the reichstag and the landtag.

There were no special decorations for the service and, next to the vast assemblage itself, the most impressive part of the scene was the cheerful effect of light and color produced by the two candles at each side of the lofty crucifix of white marble standing on the altar. The altar was covered with cloth of white and gold.

People Join in Singing.
The great bell of the cathedral was still booming when the choir of men and boys lifted their voices in the words of the twentieth psalm, chanting the words that must today come home to every loyal German heart with very special meaning. The whole program of the service, and hymns was printed in red and black on quarto sheets of noiseless paper, and every member of the congregation was able to join in the responses and singing. The dramatic moment of the service came when the men, women, and children, soldiers, ecclesiastics, and royalties joined in singing Luther's old battle hymn, "Ein feste Burg ist unser Gott." Pfannenstiel's heroic marble statue of Luther looking down meanwhile from the dome upon the people.

The birthday sermon was preached by Chief Court Preacher Dryander, a rosy, white haired ecclesiastic, who took his text from the fifth chapter and thirty-first verse of Moses, "The Lord will be with thee and will not withdraw his hand nor forsake thee."

MOSLEMS IN WILD FLIGHT BEFORE RUSS IN CAUCASUS.

Czar's Troops Crush Enemy, Capture Many Prisoners, and Take Much Booty.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 28.—The war office tonight gave out the following report on operations in the Caucasus:

In a fight in the region west of Melikert we crushed a large Turkish column and took as prisoners seventeen officers and 274 men and captured a large quantity of arms and munitions, including tens of thousands of cartridges and many ammunition carts.

Our troops, pursuing the fleeing enemy, entered the town of Khaynyskala, between Erzerum and Mush, close on its heels. Here they found, besides the troops they took prisoners, large reserves of munitions and supplies for the Turkish army. The Turks are fleeing toward Mush.

In Persia, south of Lake Urmiah, we defeated large Turkish forces, pursuing the enemy, who fled precipitately. We took as prisoners numerous Turkish regulars and Kurdish irregulars and captured large quantities of arms, munitions, medical supplies, and some thousands of cattle. Southeast of Hamadan, near Kandehlan pass, we drove the enemy back southward.

BRITISH LABOR PROVES LOYAL IN ANTI-WAR TEST.

BRISTOL, Jan. 28.—The British labor conference closed today with another victory for the patriotic element over the anti-war faction. The vote on a motion approving past actions of the labor members of the government showed a large majority in its favor, the affirmative vote being 1,406,000.

ALLIES TO MAKE FINAL STAND AT AVLONA, ALBANIA

Bulgars and Austrians Aiming at Junction for Drive on Adriatic Port.

ROME, Jan. 28.—Allied troops operating in Albania plan to make Avlona another Saloniki.

The port has been strongly fortified and it is believed in official circles that it never can be taken by the central powers. Serbs, Montenegrins, and Albanians who refused to surrender to the invaders are being transported to the Greek island of Corfu and the defense of Avlona will be left entirely in the hands of the Italians, aided by small forces of French and British.

According to reports received here, the Italians have evacuated Durazzo and the Austrians are advancing southward, meeting only slight resistance.

Bulgarian forces are advancing through the El Baskan district to effect a junction with the Austrians for the drive on Avlona.

It is believed here that within ten days the Austro-German-Bulgarian occupation of the entire Balkan peninsula to the Greek frontier will be complete, with the exception of Avlona.

Advance Without Opposition.
BERLIN, Jan. 28.—(By Wireless to Sayville.)—The district of Gushyke, in northern Albania, has been occupied without opposition by Austro-Hungarian troops, it was announced today by army headquarters at Vienna.

Emperor William has presented to the Bulgarians all war materials captured by German troops in Serbia. The booty comprised more than thirty cannon, numerous machine guns, tens of thousands of rifles, quantities of ammunition, 172 baggage and hospital wagons, and sanitary material.

Details of Peace Pact.
The Overseas news agency today gave out a report on the peace agreement signed on Jan. 25 at Cetinje between Austria and Montenegro.

The most important paragraph, according to the news agency statement, is the one numbered ten, which reads as follows:

"The Montenegrin delegates desire to begin peace negotiations as soon as possible, as this would have a quieting influence on the population."

In paragraph No. 8 the Montenegrins authorize the Austro-Hungarian army to continue military operations in Montenegro, and promised to lend all possible assistance to the Austro-Hungarian forces by furnishing them food and water, means of transportation, and housing for the troops.

It was further agreed that all Montenegrins were to lay down their arms, and that only those attached to the police forces were to be allowed to carry revolvers.

Disposal of Prisoners.
The remainder of the agreement is summarized in the statement as follows:

"All Germans and Austro-Hungarians held as prisoners in Montenegro will be released immediately. Montenegrins taken prisoner before the capitulation on Jan. 17 to be released upon the conclusion of peace; Montenegrins taken prisoner after this hour not to be considered as prisoners of war and to return freely to their homes."

"The Montenegrins surrender all airports, landing places, railroads, and fortifications until peace is concluded."

BRITISH LOSSES 550,000.
Casualties in All Fields Up to Jan. 9 Include More than 24,000 Officers.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Premier Asquith, in a written reply to a request for information, says the total British casualties in all fields of operation up to Jan. 9 were 540,467, of which 24,122 were officers and 525,345 other ranks.

RUSSIA EXPECTS A GERMAN DRIVE ON NORTH FRONT

Teutons Reported Moving Men to Riga-Dvinsk Region; Guns
Active in the South.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 28.—Early renewal of military activity in the Riga and Dvinsk districts is forecast by Russian military critics as a result of unusual activity of German aircraft in reconnoitering the Russian lines. This activity, in connection with information obtained from prisoners captured in Bukovina concerning removal of German troops from that region, leads to the belief that the Germans may be preparing an offensive in the north for the purpose of counteracting the Russian attack in Bukovina.

Along the Strpa river the artillery fire of the Teutons is increasing daily, and it is assumed they are preparing an offensive. Trench battles are occurring along the banks of the Luester and between Boyan and Rarancos. Boyan is immediately to the east of Cosmowitz, which indicates the Russians are holding conquered territory close to that important center.

Russian Report of Fighting.
The official communication issued by the war office today says:

In the region of Riga there was some cannonading. During a bombardment of Schlok, German aeroplanes, while regulating enemy artillery fire, dropped bombs at several points. In the Piekann district our artillery scored a number of successes. Several Zeppelins dropped bombs in the region of Dvinsk. Our artillery in the Lake Sventen region dispersed a large German force.

On the middle Strpa there were frequent skirmishes between scouting parties. North of Boyan our patrols, using hand grenades, dislodged the enemy from three craters formed by mine explosions. In the same region small parties of the enemy attempted to take the offensive, but were driven back by our fire.

German Official Statement.
BERLIN, Jan. 28.—The German war office today issued the following statement:

On both sides of the river south of Dvinsk and between Stochod and the Strpa there were minor engagements in which we captured a number of prisoners and a quantity of materials.

GERMANS ATTACK FRENCH FORCES ON WIDE FRONT

Paris Admits Enemy Gained at One Point During Battle in Artois Region.

Paris reports indicate the Germans have begun a new offensive in the west. The scene is a wide front in the Artois region and extending from near Givenchy to the south of Arras. There were attacks on at least five separate points, but Paris admits losses at only one—the west of Hill 140.

FRANC OFFICIAL REPORT.
PARIS, Jan. 28.—The war office gave out the following statement tonight: In the Artois district the enemy has directed successive attacks on various points of the front. To the west of Hill 140, south of Givenchy, the enemy succeeded in gaining a foot in some parts of our advanced trenches. Another attack directed at the same time against our positions in the neighborhood of the road from Neuville to La Folle has been repulsed. A third attack to the north of Roucourt was stopped by our artillery and rifle fire. The enemy was not able to leave his trenches. A fourth attack on the road of St. Laurent to St. Nicholas, to the northeast of Arras, was decisively checked. To the south of the road from Neuville to La Folle, we recaptured a new crater after a violent fight and repulsed the violent counter attacks of the enemy. The enemy suffered heavy losses. One hundred and fifty German bodies were counted in one of the craters. The enemy bombarded violently our positions at Arras and to the south of that city the enemy launched a violent infantry attack.

German Official Report.
BERLIN, Jan. 28.—The war office made public the following report today: In the sector of Neuville attacks with hand grenades made by the French were repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy. One of the craters made by a mine which was exploded remained in the hands of the enemy. Repeated bombardments by the French of villages behind our front were answered by our artillery, which bombarded the city of Reims.

Northeast of La Chaulde our troops occupied the crater formed by the explosion of a mine by the enemy.

British Official Report.
LONDON, Jan. 28.—The British official communication issued tonight says: Under the cover of a heavy rifle, machine gun, and artillery fire the enemy attempted an infantry attack northeast of Loos. The attack was driven back. The enemy exploded a mine at Fri-court and also one east of Cutinchy. No damage was done. We sprang a mine east of Givenchy. Hostile artillery has been very active against our trenches north of Maricourt, between Loos and the La Bassee canal, east of Armentieres, and north of Wytchaele. We retaliated, damaging the hostile trenches in many places.

KING CONSTANTINE EXILE BEFORE LONG: A PREDICTION.

Diplomat in Rome Sees Crisis Developing to Drive Greek Ruler from His Kingdom.

ROME, Jan. 28.—"I would not be surprised," said a neutral diplomat here today, "if before long King Constantine of Greece passes through Rome en route for France, to join the king of Montenegro in exile."

Starting as this statement may sound on the face of it, it is strikingly illustrative of the general tendency of opinion in political circles here. Sensational developments are expected to come to pass shortly in the Hellenic kingdom. King Constantine's decision to proclaim a state of siege is opposed by several ministers, who threaten to resign. Their object, so say reports from Athens, is to provoke a crisis which would inevitably lead to return to power of ex-premier Venizelos. The ministers' opposition to the state of siege is said to be prompted by their conversion to the allies' cause. Pro-Germans in Greece, on the other hand, hint openly that the king's opposition and the allies are not disinterested. They accuse England and France of plotting for the cooperation of the Venizelist party toward a dethronement of the king, and the first step toward this, the pro-Germans charge, is the buying over of ministers.

AUSTRIANS THRICE BEATEN BACK BY ITALIAN FORCES.

Fall in Repeated Efforts to Dislodge
Foe on Isonzo Front and Finally Flee, Rome Reports.

ROME, via London, Jan. 28.—The war office today issued the following official statement covering operations on the Austrian front:

Artillery activity has been particularly intense on some parts of the Carnia frontier. On the upper Isonzo last evening, after a violent artillery preparation, the enemy in force tried to dislodge us from our positions. The enemy was repulsed. It renewed attacks with fresh troops for the second and third times, but was driven back with heavy losses and finally took flight.

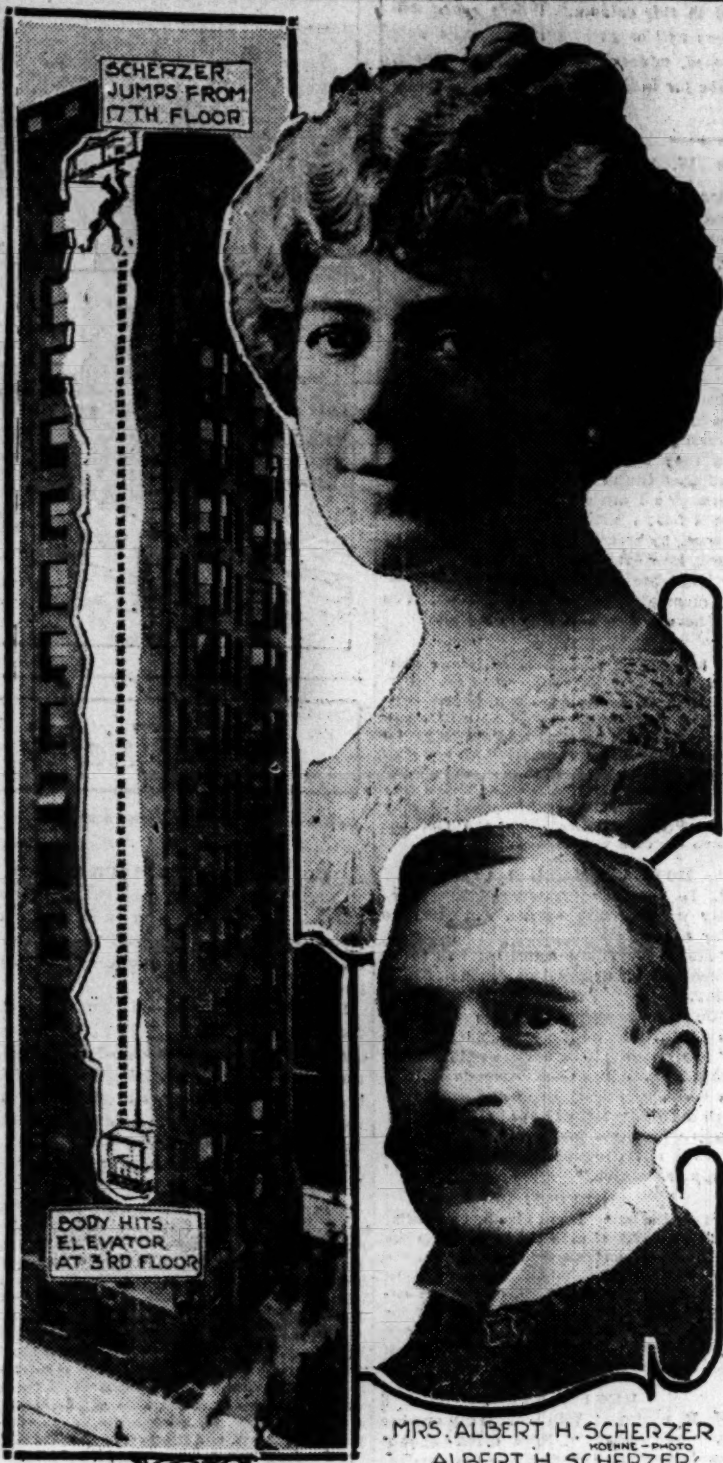

On the heights west of Gorizia our troops recaptured part of the ground abandoned on the night of the 24th and consolidated the position. Yesterday in this zone there were some artillery duels and machine gun and rifle encounters.

On the Carpo one of our detachments pluckily raided an enemy trench southwest of San Martino.

Distinguished Bridge Engineer Who Ended Life, His Wife, and Diagram of Plunge in Monadnock Building.

Albert H. Scherzer, president of the Scherzer Rolling Lift Bridge company and a bridge engineer of international reputation, leaped thirteen stories to his death down an elevator shaft in the Monadnock building yesterday. He climbed a ladder to the top of the grating protecting the shaft on the sixteenth floor, clung for an instant to a cable, and then dropped to the floor of an elevator stopped at the third floor level. Financial worries or poor health are believed to have prompted the act. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Donna Adair Scherzer.

ALLIED AIRMEN RAID FREIBURG

Berlin Statement Admits
Loss to Property but
No Deaths.

BERLIN, Jan. 28.—[By Wireless.] Freiburg was bombed last night by two hostile aeroplanes which dropped five bombs on the town, according to reports received and given out here by the Overseas News agency. There were no casualties.

Some damage was caused, the extent of which is not stated in the reports so far to hand.

Compares Losses in Air.
An official statement issued today by the army headquarters said: Statements have been made in the British house of commons regarding aerial attacks. The best answer is furnished by the following compilation of our losses and those of the enemy in aeroplanes since our communication of Oct. 8.

In aerial battles seven of our aeroplanes have been shot down by enemy anti-aircraft guns and eight are missing, making a total of fifteen. Our opponents on the western front in the same period lost forty-one aeroplanes in aerial battles.

Attacks Ship Near Dover.
HULL, Jan. 28.—The captain of the Wilson liner Carlo reports that his vessel was attacked in the vicinity of Dover Sunday afternoon last by a German aeroplane, which dropped a number of bombs.

LOOKING FOR WORK

Everywhere men complain about work; even boys and girls in school or business find work tedious and irksome, but it is really their own lack of physical strength that makes it hard.

Rich blood, strong lungs and healthy digestion make work pleasurable in business, in school or even housework, and if you who are easily tired—who are not sick, but weak and nervous—would just take Scott's Emulsion for one month and let its pure, concentrated food create richer blood to pulsate through every artery and vein—let it build a structure of healthy tissue and give you vigorous strength—you would find work easy and would look for more. Always insist on Scott's.

BRITISH VESSEL, CARRYING 301, BELIEVED LOST

London Fears All Who Were
Aboard Liner Appam Perished
When It Went Down.

LONDON, Jan. 28, 2 a. m.—Shipping circles in London fear that the British and African liner Appam has been lost with all on board, a total of 301 persons, of whom 57 were first class and 51 second class passengers. Its cargo was valued at $1,000,000.

The liner left Dakar, French Senegal, in West Africa, for Plymouth, on Jan. 11. It should have arrived at Plymouth in ten days, but nothing has been heard from it directly since wireless communication ended suddenly after it was two days out, and the liner is believed to have sunk on Jan. 16, somewhere northwest of Madeira.

Lifeboat Is Picked Up.
A dispatch from Hull to Lloyd's says that the British steamship Tregantle reports having passed at sea on Jan. 16 a lifeboat with the name Appam painted on the stern and the bow knocked away.

The captain of the Tregantle says that the lifeboat was capable of holding forty persons, but it showed no signs of having been occupied and had no oars aboard.

Speculation regarding the cause of the catastrophe varies from a submarine to an internal explosion. About the time communication with the Appam was ended there was a terrific storm in the water through which it was passing, but shipping men say there is little likelihood that the Appam could have succumbed to a storm without notifying with the wireless, which was of the latest type.

Shipping men broach the theory of German submarines, shut out from the Mediterranean, operating off the west coast of Africa, as well as one of Germany's mines in the Bay of Biscay.

Other Steamers Long Overdue.
Several other steamers which were in the vicinity of the place where the Appam met disaster are long overdue and fears for their safety are felt. A very high rate for reinsurance is being quoted on the steamers Ariadne and Clio Mac-tavish, which are overdue on voyages over the same route as the Appam took.

Most of the passengers of the Appam, who number 166, are British colonial officials and their families. Among those who were booked to sail were Sir Edward and Lady Merewether.

FOR 1,000,000 MEN ON THE ATLANTIC

Conclusions of General Staff
Presented to House Committee.

WEAKNESS IS CITED.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—Conclusions of the general staff of the army as to the country's requirements for adequate defense were delineated by its members today before the house military committee, which is considering the administration's army increase measures.

They held that 1,000,000 men—500,000 regulars and 500,000 reserves—would be needed along the Atlantic coast and the Gulf from Pensacola, Me. to Mobile, Ala.; that it takes a year to train a soldier; that arsenals and supply depots should be situated well in from the coast, and at least 200 miles away from Canada or Mexico; that the Philippines were not essential to national defense, and that the danger points from foreign expeditions were the north Atlantic cities, San Francisco, and Puget Sound.

Need 1,000,000 for Defense.
"The United States should whip an enemy at the water's edge," Major Andrew Moses told the committee. "If a foreign power believes we can do so the chances of war are less. There should be 1,000,000 men prepared as a constant force for protection of the coast against invasion, prepared against possible loss of control of the sea."

Great Britain's navy would so outnumber us now that we would lose control of the sea very soon. With a combination of the navy of two powerful governments against us we would not be able to hold the sea thirty days."

Maj. Moses and the other general staff officers favored universal training in peace time and universal service in war time.

Gives Needs of Nation.
The conclusions of the general staff were reflected in defense details given by Lieut. Col. W. G. Haan, a member of a war department board which for seven years studied the proposition, to the senate military committee today.

He declared America needed 1,000,000 men to protect its "vital areas."

Ships could lie outside of Boston, Lieut. Col. Haan said, and destroy the navy yard, the state house, the Fore River works, and the business district without being in range of the American guns.

Lieut. Col. Haan disclosed also that during recent navy maneuvers at Boston the ships by new tactics to avoid the mortar fire succeeded to a large extent in making the theoretical fire of these guns ineffective.

MANN, IN HOUSE, DEFENDS WILSON; ASKS A FAIR DEAL

Republican Rises to Rebuke
Two Democrats Who Attack
Policies of President.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—Republican Leader Mann came to the defense of President Wilson in the house today when Representative Dies of Texas, leader of the anti-preparedness Democrats, attacked the president's New York speech on national defense.

Mr. Mann rebuked Mr. Dies for making any remarks about the president's views before the latter had completed his speaking tour, and declared that his only defense for changing his position on preparedness was that he believed he was right.

Representative Dies declared that retired army and navy officials were chiefly responsible for the preparedness agitation.

"Every old liar on the retired list," he shouted, "is in active service now."

"Ames! Ames!" returned Representative "Cyclone" Davis of Texas.

Must Meet Present Danger.
"With the possibility of danger which prevails," Mr. Mann said, in coming to the defense of the president, "we will meet the situation, we will rise to our responsibilities and put this nation in a position where it can protect itself against any foreign foe."

Tempestuous applause broke from all sides of the chamber.

"Great nations are arrayed against one another in Europe today and there are no prospects of peace," Mr. Mann continued.

Opposes Big Regular Army.
"I do not believe in a great standing army or the permanent necessity of a great navy, but I do believe that a great country like ours that refuses to consider a situation today because of its beliefs in the past has not the right to remain at peace and will not be able to do so."

"The president ought to know more about this situation than any member of this house. And now that he is going about the country to state his case it would be more becoming to members of his own party to await his statement, at least, before attacking him."

Warm the house and make a home!

The uppermost thought of all mothers is to have a home that is cleanly, amply warmed, to cheer and comfort husband and little folks; also to make the home a cozy, genial center for the gatherings of good friends. All mothers now-a-days deserve to be freed forever from the back-breaking drudgery of "tending stoves," that heat only "in spots," and spout ash-dust and coal-gases. The only sure way to warm the house and make it a home is with an outfit of

The IDEAL Boiler may be put in cellar or side room and will burn any local fuel—wood, oil, gas, lignite, hard or soft coal, (even cheap grades of pea coal, slack, run of mine, screenings, etc.) Bankers and real estate men will back our statement that it is a paying and permanent investment and not an expense—these outfits are the greatest improvement you can make in a building, for their fuel and other savings repay their original cost many fold during the lifetime of the building.

SENATE SPLIT OVER BRANDEIS; MAY BEAT HIM

Nomination to Supreme Bench
Surprise; Conservatives
Call Him Unethical.

Taft administration. As attorney for Davis during the investigation Mr. Brandeis had much to do with turning the tide of public opinion against Baileigh. Senator Nelson always has remained this. He was one of the first senators to announce his opposition to the nomination.

Other senators who are opposed to the nomination are expected to make charges of unethical legal practices against Mr. Brandeis during the executive sessions of the senate. Whether they do so openly is problematical.

If Mr. Brandeis' confirmation is prevented by the senators opposed to him, his case will be the second in the history of the senate where a man nominated for the supreme court has been rejected.

During the second Cleveland administration William B. Hornblower of New York, nominated to fill a vacancy, was defeated because of the opposition of Senator David B. Hill of that state.

Storm Center for Decade.
Mr. Brandeis has been a storm center for more than a decade. By his friends he is regarded as a "general counsel for the public at large." By his enemies he is regarded as one of the greatest trouble makers who have ever occupied the public stage in this country.

He has been particularly prominent in matters concerning railroad and public utility legislation, regulation, and operation. Also, he has taken a prominent part in the movement destined to wipe out child labor, procure better hours of employment for men and women in industry, obtain better sanitary conditions in all lines of employment and to improve the working man's general standard of living.

He became interested in the working hours of women and offered to serve permanently without fee as the general counsel of the National Consumers league. In this cause he won his case for the establishment of a ten hour day for women in Oregon and in Illinois.

Immigration Problem Hobby.
In addition Mr. Brandeis always has taken a great interest in the immigration problem in this country. He is a lobbyist and has been in the forefront of the Zionist movement in this country.

It probably is through his connection with railroad rate cases that Mr. Brandeis has gained his greatest publicity. He has long contended the railroads of the country have not been conducted as business propositions, but merely as adjuncts of Wall street.

He was employed by the interstate commerce commission as its counsel in the 1910 and 1911 eastern advance rate cases. In both instances he successfully opposed the effort of the carriers to get material increases in their freight rates. He admitted they needed more revenue, but he said the way for them to obtain it was not through an increased tax on the public, but through an extension of economic life in their management.

Throws Light on New Haven.
Mr. Brandeis was one of the first persons in the country to call attention to the gross mismanagement of the New York, New Haven and Hartford system.

When he started his crusade to obtain better business management of that road he was denounced by railroad presidents and attorneys as the wildest type of a demagogue. It was a peculiar coincidence that after the things he declared were true of the New Haven had been proved the stockholders of the road beseeched him to become one of the trustees intrusted with the work of re-creating the system.

The whole theory of Mr. Brandeis, according to his friends, has been constructive. He has never attempted to destroy a railroad system, they declare. He has merely pointed out cancerous growths in a particular system, asked that they be remedied, and he has had a remedy for each case when requested for one.

According to his enemies, however, Mr. Brandeis' whole career has been destructive. He has never done anything except to tear down, they assert.

Fought to Cut Down Waste.
In the last eastern rate case he made a tremendous fight to compel the railroads to cut out a lot of services which he said they were performing free.

They included spotting, switching, light-rage, storage, and transfer services. The carriers said that if they cut out these services and charged for them the charges would cost the shippers more than the increases asked in rates.

Mr. Brandeis contended the railroads should obtain from each shipper the full cost of the service given him and in addition thereto a reasonable profit. The railroads contended his scheme would mean the overthrow of the entire American rate system.

Mr. Brandeis was born in Louisville, Ky., Nov. 13, 1856, of Jewish parents. He was educated in the public and high schools of Louisville and at Dresden, Germany. Later he was graduated in law from Harvard university. He was admitted to the bar in 1878 and has practiced in Boston since 1879. He was married to Miss Alice Goldmark of New York in 1881. They have two daughters.

BRANDEIS' VIEW OF TRUSTS; CRUSHERS OF THE LABORER

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 28.—[Special.]—Mr. Brandeis' views of trusts and big business generally are pronounced. He holds that monopoly and efficiency is the secret of the control achieved by the great industrial combines. He recently defined his views on this question as follows:

"First—No conspicuous American trust owes its existence to the desire for increased efficiency.

"Second—No conspicuously profitable trust owes its profits largely to superior efficiency.

"Third—No conspicuous trust has been efficient enough to maintain long as against the independent, its proportion of the business of the country without continuing to buy up, from time to time, its successful competitors.

"These three propositions are also true of most of the lesser trusts. If there is any exception, the explanation will doubtless be found in extraordinary ability on the part of the managers or unusual trade conditions.

"And this further proposition may be added:

"Fourth—Most of the trusts which do not secure monopolistic position have failed to show marked success or efficiency as compared with independent competing concerns.

Mr. Brandeis has championed the cause of organized labor on numerous occasions and has earned thereby the enmity of large corporations. In the campaign of 1912 he said:

"Organized labor has had experience with the great trusts which should teach all men that commercial power may be so great that it is the part of wisdom to fear it.

"Great trusts—the steel trust, the sugar trust, the beef trust, the tobacco trust, the smaller trust, and a whole troop of lesser trusts—have made the extermination of organized labor from their factories the very foundation stone of their labor policy.

"The ability to defeat labor's rights to combine seems to have been regarded by the trust magnates as a proper test of the efficiency of their capitalistic combination.

"And, indeed, this ability of the great trusts to overcome the workman has been confidently relied upon by the trust advocates as one of the great 'savings of combination.'" ried to Miss Alice Goldmark of New York in 1881. They have two daughters.

JUDGE MACK LAUDS CHOICE.
Federal Judge Julian W. Mack, when asked about the appointment of Mr. Brandeis, said:

"Mr. Brandeis is one of the greatest lawyers in this country. He is one of the ablest and most patriotic of men. In my judgment he is most admirably fitted for the place."

PRESS COMMENT ON APPOINTMENT OF L. D. BRANDEIS

Some Papers Criticize President Wilson's Choice for U. S. Supreme Court.

Four papers commented on the appointment of Louis D. Brandeis to the United States Supreme court, but several of those that did believe President Wilson made a mistake. The comment is appended.

NEW YORK WORLD.—In ultra-conservative and corporation circles the appointment of Louis D. Brandeis to the United States Supreme court has been received with dismay. Yet Mr. Brandeis has a record as a lawyer not unlike that of Charles E. Hughes. Both are great investigators. Both have demonstrated their devotion to the public welfare. In his day Mr. Hughes was feared by selfish and corrupt interests no less than Mr. Brandeis has been.

NEW YORK SUN.—Possibly it was President Wilson's intention to break in this case all of the precedents which have determined in the past the choice of members of the supreme court. Perhaps he has been looking for ability of one sort instead of stability of the other sort. Perhaps he wanted to weaken the bench instead of strengthening it; that is, weaken it from the point of view to which we have all become accustomed.

NEW YORK TRIBUNE.—Maybe Mr. Brandeis has commended himself to Mr.

Wilson by showing that he, too, can change his mind. The country hopes so. It would be a misfortune if he carried to the Supreme bench the narrow, mistaken attitude toward the vital industry of transportation which he took when he was serving as adviser to the interstate commerce commission.

DETROIT FREE PRESS.—Of all the Americans who have passed before the public view in the last ten years, Louis D. Brandeis is in temperament and in training perhaps the least fit for the solemn, cold, dispassionate work of the Supreme court of the United States. What motive could have influenced a president to appoint such a man to such a position? Louis D. Brandeis for the Supreme court of the United States! O, why not Samuel Untermyer or Jacob S. Coxey? It is the solemn duty of the senate to reject this nomination.

SWISS AT LAUSANNE AGAIN
INSULT FLAG OF GERMANY.

Battle Protestors and One Man Is Seriously Injured When Police Charge Crowd.

PARIS, Jan. 28.—Fresh anti-German demonstrations took place last night at Lausanne, a Swiss city on the north shore of Lake Geneva.

Toward midnight the great crowds which surged through the streets were dispersed, but at the railway station a small group of persons surrounding a German flag was attacked with canes, stones, and fists.

The police were forced to use their swords before they could rescue the men attacked. One man was severely injured and taken to a hospital.

This information was contained in a dispatch received from the Havas correspondent at Geneva.

Earlier in the day an angry crowd had torn down a German flag which had been hoisted by the German consulate in honor of Emperor William's birthday.

In the evening great crowds choked the streets in which the German consulate is situated, but they were held back from close approach by strong forces of police.

Press and Public Alike Acclaim The BARTLETT 6% CONVERTIBLE REAL ESTATE BOND

"Investors' Guide" in Last Sunday's Tribune Heartily Endorses Latest and Greatest Bartlett Enterprise! Says It's Boon to All!! Hundreds of Bonds Sold These First Ten Days—Big Business Men in Every Line Among Early Buyers! "Wonderful!" Is Their Verdict!!

"THE NEW PLAN IS EXCELLENT FROM every point of view. Its greatest advantage is in removing the chief difficulty that confronts the wage worker who wants to own a home... If every salaried person in Chicago would start on this plan, the total wealth of the city would increase by leaps and bounds, and all would participate not only in the increase but in the 'unearned increment' which must go with it!"

SO says, in part, The Tribune Investors' Guide, whose mission it is to reliably and impartially advise the readers of this great newspaper. The comment quoted above appeared in last Sunday's Tribune, in an article headed "Real Estate Buying Made Easy"—a title that simply and clearly expresses the actual purpose of this new Bartlett plan.

An Immediate and Impressive Success!

Before even the newspapers recognized editorially the bigness, the breadth, the merit of our plan, Chicago's public seized upon it and sought eagerly to profit thereby. Rich and poor alike have flocked to buy the BARTLETT BONDS. Mayor Thompson bought; City Comptroller Pike bought; Senator Harding bought. Representative business men in every field—stockbrokers, bankers, department-store heads, even real estate brokers, have purchased, too. And along with them came clerks, bookkeepers, stenographers, office boys, to make first payments on their BARTLETT BONDS.

5 CENTS STARTS YOU ON THE ROAD TO REAL ESTATE OWNERSHIP!
You can't afford to let that trifling amount stand between you and the prided distinction of being a property holder. So act at once—send in your nickel—or call or phone for details.

Our office now open every evening till 9 o'clock for the accommodation of our Bond purchasers and all inquirers.

GOSSIP OF BOOKS OF THE DAY

When Death Strays
Pen of the Critic

BY ELIA W. PEATTIE.

A genial review from the pen of Jeannette L. Gilder appears in today's TRIBUNE, not only a high duty to remember. The literary columns of THE TRIBUNE will be the poorer lacking her contributions—those contributions which possessed the quality of a felicitous conversation. That some one full of the wine of life and the love of the literature will take up her work would be her ardent desire. She was weary and not averse, we may well believe, to joining that illustrious procession of genial folk, lovers of life and books, which has preceded her.

Miss Gilder has written plays, stories, and books, but she was best known as an appreciative commentator upon the work of other writers. She preferred biography or autobiography to all other forms of literature, and, indeed, her interest in the distinguished and diverting men and women who had passed through the great straits of life was so deep that she was strong as that she entertained for those who were still playing their parts upon the stage of the present.

She had a vast capacity for friendship and none appealed to her in vain for her cheering words of practical help. Though she was not privileged to be a wife and mother, her life was in no sense meager. Her devotion to her brothers and sisters and to her children had in it a masterful fervor, for she was full of womanly tenderness, notwithstanding the whimsicality which impelled her to dress in garments which were more masculine than feminine in cut and which no doubt were devised to save time and thought.

There was, however, something downright and free about her which was more masculine than feminine, and in her two delightful personal confessions, "The Autobiography of a Tomb" and "A Tomb Boy at Work," she has confessed to the restlessness and love of adventure which were her distinguishing characteristics. Her practical literary work began at the age of 18, when she became a contributor to the Newark N. J. Morning Register. For twenty-eight years she has been a correspondent for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. For several years she has been associated with her brother, the poet Richard Watson Gilder, in the editorial department of Scribner's Magazine. Later she was the literary and musical critic for the New York Herald, and in 1881 she started with her brother, Joseph Gilder, that engaging magazine the Critic, which for years enjoyed an enviable prestige.

She served at one time and another as correspondent of the leading papers of Boston and Philadelphia and edited and compiled a number of books.

Her capability and reliability were among the many qualities which commended her to the editors to whose periodicals she contributed. She understood the heavy demands of the press and met them, cooperating efficiently and with no shirking of responsibility. She loved life and its so various entertainments—loved New York with its theaters, loved the Connecticut hills with their beguiling solitude, loved most of all, perhaps, Wales with its wild beauty, the country from which her forebears came. Her mellow, reminiscent tendencies mixed with intense enjoyment of present day things and the hour's feeling enchantment to make her a woman it was a privilege to know and a high duty to remember. The literary columns of THE TRIBUNE will be the poorer lacking her contributions—those contributions which possessed the quality of a felicitous conversation. That some one full of the wine of life and the love of the literature will take up her work would be her ardent desire. She was weary and not averse, we may well believe, to joining that illustrious procession of genial folk, lovers of life and books, which has preceded her.

Miss Glasgow's Novel.

It is fitting that the review which should follow this brief farewell to Miss Gilder should be of a book by a woman, who, like herself, is devoted to the finest meanings of life. Ellen Glasgow is one of the most cultivated and devoted of our present day novelists, and in her latest volume, "LIFE AND GABRIELLE," she has confronted a question of the greatest significance to women—the question of divorce. It has not been her policy to advise the clinging together of men and women who have ceased to care for each other and whose lives are being dragged down by their association. Instead, her arguments are all for the dissolution of homes from which the spirit of love and fidelity has departed.

Miss Glasgow is a southerner, and she understands, as few northern women can, the aversion to divorce, amounting to an obsession, which prevails there in certain communities. A woman who breaks through the curse of an unhappy or degrading married life is regarded as lacking in womanliness and religion, and the circumstances are so appalling that her act is approved of, she is expected to keep herself in the background the rest of her life and to "feel her position" with all the poignancy that her own conscientiousness and public sentiment can inflict upon her.

Gabrielle Carr, Miss Glasgow's heroine, lived in Richmond and was surrounded by traditions, customs and prejudices, but she did not succeed in sapping her personality. When it became necessary for her to earn money to keep herself and her mother from starving she went to work in a store, though her mother was plunged into permanent gloom by the act. She married the man she loved and went away with him to New York, and when she found out that she had made a terrible mistake and was wedded to a selfish libertine, she proceeded to keep her soul alive, and to find comfort in her two little children. When matters went from bad to worse she again returned to business, to poverty and independence, got her divorce, and preserved the integrity of her own soul. After many years new and strange happiness came to her.

This brief outline of the story gives no indication of the engaging and sympathetic manner with which Miss Glasgow has presented her tale. She has understanding, woman and understanding of the prejudices and convictions by which they move. Her style is firm and vigorous, totally free of sentimentalism, touched with a virile humor, and supported by strong common sense. She does not idealize, and she does not distort. Her vision is clear, her judgment sound, and the methods by which she intrigues the interest are legitimate from a literary standpoint. (Doubleday, Page & Co.)

Sound and Fury Signifying—Mr. Herrick.

BY BURTON RASCOE.

OBERT HERRICK, whose verbal mosaics adorn the highbrow frieze of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE, has razed this paper's files and collected some of his gems, polished them and listened them, and set them up as a permanent entablature for posterity under the title, "THE WORLD DECISION" (Houghton Mifflin company). Soavid was he to inaugurate the memorial, he neglected to mention that his novice hand had fashioned many of his conceptions originally for the ephemeral frieze aforementioned. That courtesy, of course, is merely a custom, and indifference to it may be condoned in so earnest a foe of bourgeois practices.

Mr. Herrick undoubtedly is the world's most thoroughly infected Teutophobe. No pollux in the trenches cherishing revenge for atrocities recited by Le Petit Journal, no Belgian separated from his fellows in the prison camp at Halle, no Bersaglierie infamed by the median route of Gabriele D'Annunzio, no London slacker forced into service under Lord Derby's recruiting campaign, is fevered so poignantly as a virus against the Germans as this associate professor of rhetoric in the University of Chicago.

Prussians are, to this ruthless exponent of the innate wickedness of the insinuating sex, worse even than women—like women, they stifle liberty, defeat the noblest ambitions of the male individual, crush the soaring spirit to earth with lies, intrigue, and rigid codes; but even women do not chop off the arms of members of their sex, outrage young girls, pillage and burn, and commit wholesale murder. These things, Mr. Herrick believes, the Prussians literally do.

And we of America, soulless dealers in stocks and bonds (how many have you?), traffickers in munitions, drink champagne and throw confetti on New Year's eve while the chivalrous French in the muddy trenches are (I believe I quote Mr. Herrick's exact words) fighting our battles for us—fighting to keep the pernicious German landlords with their model tenements out of romantically dirty Naples, to prevent that plague called German efficiency from infesting London's picturesque east side, to stop the flow of serums and anesthetics and coal tar products from German laboratories to relieve a suffering humanity that is better off, spiritually, without these things.

In France, in Italy, there is poetry, the poetry of the Latin, that, according to Mr. Herrick, will have nothing of the blond beast to the north—the poetry in the soul of the people that fires in patriotic passion at the words of an androgynous poet who returns at the right moment from years of exile. Political sagacity of corrupt politicians like Galotti, even the catchphrase "Trahis Irredenta," mean naught to these liberty loving children of the sunshine; they would be (I believe I quote the Madrid Huns, not for gain, not for the sake of state, not for anything that is base and ignoble, but for the holy cause of exterminating the monsters across the Alps.

In Mr. Herrick's tower of ivory the brutality of actual fact has no welcome, no scapegoat of life's actuality is suffered to intrude, like those literary parasites the newspaper interviewers, upon his august presence. He believes, in his naive way, that the Lusitania disaster caused Italy to declare war upon Austria; that the Belgians are glad the war began. One impostor, the reality that this war is largely between two distinct and opposed views of life, has crept into his sanctum and Mr. Herrick has embraced it, but he has not admitted the relative of the reality which knock at his door. Instead, Mr. Herrick has gone to his desk and written—beautiful English.

New York in History.

That the seldom lauded battle of Oriskany, in New York state, was followed by more momentous consequences than the far famed Bunker Hill engagement, and that the Boston massacre was not a massacre at all, but a street quarrel with British soldiers, are some of the unconventional remarks by Sherman Williams in "NEW YORK'S PART IN HISTORY" (D. Appleton & Co.). The volume does not pretend to be a history of the state, but uses prominent figures and events from early Indian days down to Andrew S. Draper as the central theme for its seventeen chapters. Massachusetts has a noble history, says the author, but New York a nobler, and his book is an effort to substantiate the latter half of that statement, without much additional disparagement of the New England states.

Nothing of the sort more thoroughly delightful has for a long time appeared.

Will "Pork-Barrel" Antagonists Kill the National Defense Program?

Among others, a Southern Congressman whose "stentorian cry for 'pork'" evoked enthusiastic outbursts of approval in the House, is reported as declaring that he favors "reasonable preparedness," but only with the understanding that public buildings should be provided wherever they are needed.

"Isn't it an awful state of affairs?" the Houston Chronicle ironically remarks, "if this preparedness scheme goes through, there won't be any loose change for post-offices in country towns, or for improving backwoods creeks."

In this week's LITERARY DIGEST (January 29th) there is an interesting article which shows the gist of Public Opinion throughout the country as reflected in the newspaper press upon the President's preparedness program. There will be no other subject before the Congress which so vitally concerns the American people. Be sure to read this article. This feature is not the only one of value to "Digest" readers. It is especially helpful at a time when the large body of thinking men views with concern the military unpreparedness of the United States to receive counsel regarding the best means of building up an efficient military organization from those who have held posts of responsibility under actual war conditions and who write with the experience gained in the crucial years of national strife.

General Woodhull's suggestions are the most valuable which have been or probably can be made toward getting the country into a condition of defense, and into shape to maintain the army of defense in a normal and efficient condition for war, should war unfortunately come.

BANKERS HEAR PERKINS ASSAIL WILSON POLICIES

"Incompetent, Unpatriotic, and Spineless," He Says of the White House Leadership.

George W. Perkins, banker and Bull Moose, spoke his mind in Chicago last night concerning the Wilson administration. It was a speech that might well have been uttered by Col. Roosevelt. In session at the Congress hotel, for an audience of about 100 persons, Mr. Perkins characterized conditions of the moment at the capital as "incompetent, unpatriotic, spineless leadership," declared crisply that "during the Wilson administration there has been no reason for Americans to be proud," and submitted the conviction that "Washington seems to be operating on the principle that the typewriter is mightier than the sword, and we have in the White House a man who is not too proud to use it."

Graves Takes Rap at Wilson. After Mr. Perkins had finished, John Temple Graves, editorial representative of the Hearst newspapers, brought his hearers to their feet with this: "As a Democrat, I am free to say that, if the present condition does not change, when the ballots are counted in November the national majority will be with the present political minority."

The banquet, which was devoted to the sale of preparedness, bristled with "surprise" features. When the bankers arrived they found the hall transferred to a battleship—huge funnel in the center, masts, wireless outfit, port lights, bridge, and pilot house complete. There were flags, a Zeppelin bomb from London, a wicked looking field piece from the training station, and the midship's band, making martial music in the corridor and rendering conversation impossible.

A little play presenting King's series of Tribune cartoons, "Uncle Sam and Aunt Polity," struck the keynote of the program. Hear Speech by Telephone. Then each guest picked up a telephone receiver, listened to a speech by James K. Lynch, president of the American Bankers' association, in San Francisco, and overheard discussion of preparedness with men in New York, Pittsburgh, Omaha, Denver, Salt Lake City, and Carson City.

Reference to "Wordy Wilson" started the laughter and applause that punctuated Mr. Perkins' speech.

Recalls Wilson's Pledge. "In the platform on which Mr. Wilson was elected," he said, "you will find the following pledge: 'The constitutional rights of American citizens should protect them on our borders and go with them throughout the world, and every American citizen residing or having property in any foreign country is entitled to and must be given the full protection of the United States government.'"

"Could anything be more direct and explicit? And yet witness the abandonment of our people and our business interests in Mexico! While peacefully pursuing their callings they have been hunted down and killed, both on land and sea, whether in May or December."

"Sorry," Events the Offense. "When killed on the high seas Berlin has said: 'We warned you and we are sorry.' When killed in Mexico, Washington echoes: 'We warned you, and we are sorry.'"

"If we had possessed a thousand submarines and a million men, the result would have been practically the same, for our unpreparedness had been just what it is now—incompetent, unpatriotic, spineless leadership. Could a promise to a people have been broken more completely or in a more disgraceful and unpatriotic manner?"

"You bankers know that if you were to sell securities on a prospectus that made representations that subsequently were so wantonly broken you would be summoned before the bar of justice."

"All signs point to the fact that this nation is the only civilized nation that is not now engaged in thinking, planning, working for the future. In no respect are we more unprepared than in that of leadership. The war has been in progress eighteen months and not one single word while has been taken toward real, all round, preparedness—preparedness for war at arms which may come or for war at industry, which will come."

contents of the president for reasons of his own, if for no other.
"Knowing that they are safe, the president's political managers proceed to disseminate purely for home consumption the statement that Mr. Wilson will take drastic action unless Germany or Austria yields. Then, in a day or two, the administration gives out the withheld information that Germany or Austria has conceded a point. Immediately the presidential political managers proclaim another diplomatic victory won by the threat of severe action."

"WILL NOT REACH BERLIN."

"Of course, the actual threat to sever diplomatic relations never gets to Berlin or Vienna or any further than the public prints in America. This appears to be the device of the Democratic political managers for countering the president's statement that there is 'such a thing as being too proud to fight.' This threat to sever diplomatic relations with Berlin unless the sinking of the Lusitania is disavowed seems simply, if anything, that the white house has advance information that Germany is going to disavow. When she does disavow the Wilson political lieutenants will exclaim: 'See what a victory our virtue and aggressive president has won.'"

Opponents of the administration contend that if it was not worth while breaking off diplomatic relations with Berlin when the Lusitania was sunk or when the Arabic was sunk it would be unprofitable to bring the nation to the brink of war with Germany now when there is nothing but an academic question left in the Lusitania case.

Administration officials indignantly deny the charges and insinuations of the president's opponents that the threat of taking drastic action against Germany has been concocted merely for political effect.

URGES PROTEST AGAINST JAP ACTION IN CHINA.

Senator Sherman Calls on President to Tell Tokio U. S. Cannot Permit Closing "Open Door."

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—Special.]—Senator Sherman of Illinois today introduced a resolution in the senate requesting President Wilson to inform Japan that the United States cannot permit it to encroach further upon the territorial integrity of China.

The resolution declares that the "open door" policy in China is designated to protect the commercial rights of citizens of America as well as other nations, and asks the president to inform Japan that the United States cannot look with indifference on the threatened abridgment of American and European rights.

NAME MEMBERS OF COMMITTEES BY APRIL VOTE

Stevenson Call for Petitions Gives First Official Notice of Any Change.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 28.—Secretary of State Lewis C. Stevenson announced today that he would accept and file petitions of candidates for state central committees for the primary election April 11. This was the first definite announcement that the election machinery of the state would recognize the April primary in preference to the September primary as the time for electing state committees and precinct committeemen.

Legislature Does Not Act.
Although the legislature has failed to enact any amendments to the primary law, Mr. Stevenson's statement said, "it is a foregone conclusion that the delegates to national nominating conventions will be held in the April primary, instead of at the party conventions."
"Attorney General Lucy has placed this construction upon the law, and has also taken the position that precinct committeemen, ward committeemen in cities, and state central committees are to be elected in April and not in September."
The secretary of state will accept and file petitions of candidates for state central committees for the election in April. Senatorial committees will be elected at the September primary. Petitions for delegates to national nominating conventions and petitions for state central committees will be filed in my office by mail beginning Feb. 11 and ending March 2. Petitions for ward committees are filed with the county clerks between the same dates. Names of candidates for precinct committees are written in on the ballot.

Conventions to Follow Quickly.

The primary election will be held on April 11, the second Tuesday of the month. On the following Monday, April 17, the county conventions of the various parties will be held. April 19 is the date for congressional conventions, and April 21 is the date designated for the meeting of the state convention.

THREE MILLIONS RAISED BY JEWISH RELIEF DAY.

Estimate Made at Central Headquarters in New York City of Sum Given in United States.

New York, Jan. 28.—Predictions that the receipts of Jewish Relief day throughout the nation would amount to $2,000,000 for Jews in the war zones of Europe were made tonight at the headquarters of the central relief committee in this city. No attempt was made to estimate the total for New York City, but it is known it will exceed $200,000 in addition to nearly $1,000,000 pledged at a mass meeting here last night.

TRADE HANDICAP IN PEACE POLICY

Vanderlip Criticizes Wilson's Foreign Attitude as Hurtful to Business.

LAW ARE RESTRICTIVE

New Orleans, La., Jan. 28.—Criticism of President Wilson's foreign policy, as neglecting the rights of American citizens abroad, was expressed tonight by Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City bank of New York. He was one of several speakers at the third national foreign trade council who spoke upon American shipping laws, the tariff, laws relating to railroads and "big business," and of the proposal for a government owned merchant fleet.
Mr. Vanderlip declared the United States did not need government aid to succeed in world trade so much as relief from governmental handicaps. He said: "We shall have handicaps in the extension of foreign trade of a government so devoted to peace that justice to its citizens in the foreign countries weighs but scantily in the balance against the advantages of peace for its people at home."
Mr. Vanderlip characterized some of the laws governing shipping and commercial combinations as "foolish legislation, un-economic, and unnecessarily restrictive."

Present Laws Restrictive.

"If this nation is to be placed in most efficient form to meet international competition of its own, it for no reason should be hampered by the removal of a few of its existing foolish legislation that is un-economic in its results, unnecessarily restrictive in its operation, and has been helpful only to politicians of all parties as a basis for demagogic appeals for votes."

"There is an effort under way now to give government aid in the attempt to erect a $50,000,000 shipping bill. Several times fifty millions of private capital could be commanded if it could have permanent assurance it could enter the world's field of shipping not handicapped by government regulations which the capital of other countries is free to ignore. A plea for modification of regulations."

The decisions of "Tribune" representatives are:

At New Orleans—Fred Fulton beat Porky Flynn (20).

At New York—Battling Levinsky beat Zulu Kid (10).

At Syracuse—Dick Coffey knocked out Lew Bodie (5).

At Philadelphia—Young McGovern beat Andy Burns (6).

At Kansas City—Miltie Saylor beat Stanly Yankus (10).

At Boston—Frankie Mack beat Johnny Lusty (12).

At Shreveport, La.—Red Henderson knocked out Leo Kelly (2).

BY JOHN L. SULLIVAN.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 28.—(Special.)—Although he won in twenty rounds to-night from Porky Flynn of Boston, Fred Fulton, the Rochester giant, in his last fight, showed championship timber of the heavyweight sort, and he must meet many a man and pick up a lot of experience before he can expect to take Jess Willard's place as the heavyweight champion of the world.

Fulton Drops; Claims Foul.

Both men had been going along nicely, Flynn having the advantage at the beginning game. In this department Fulton acted as a novice. Flynn won the first, and the second and third were even. In the fourth, with only thirty seconds to go, Fulton and Flynn were mixing it fast, when Fulton suddenly dropped and cried he had been fouled.

Referee Tommy Burns was looking sharply at them and saw no blow blow. He ordered Fulton to proceed. With a look of chagrin on his face the Rochester giant continued to fight. Later on in the twelfth round he hit Fulton in the jaw and the crowd yelled to the referee to stop the fight. Fulton earnestly refused to stop.

Long Range Baffles Flynn.

Flynn was baffled when Fulton fought at long range, the reach of the Rochester man keeping him baffled. Fulton would jab Flynn's head until he seemed that he was going to knock it off, and it was not until the top of one of these jabbing that he brought the left full on Flynn's jaw in the eighth round and dropped him for the count of three. Flynn was more than hurt and fought more than ever.

While Fulton mystified Flynn with his long range, the Rochester made Fulton look sick at fighting. Fulton did not know how to stem the tide of blows aimed at his midsection when they were close together and all he could do was hold Flynn's hands. During one of these clinches in the earlier rounds Flynn split Fulton's mouth, and in the seventeenth round he landed Fulton's left eye.

Giant Becomes Fervid.

Fulton started to fight in the sixth round, and he jabbed and beat Flynn all over the ring in this session. In the seventh he repeated, but became fervid and tried to hit Flynn after the bell because the latter landed a blow started just as the gong sounded. Fulton with his unsteady awkwardness won the eighth, but Flynn evened the ninth.

Flynn forced Fulton to fighting in the tenth, eleventh and twelfth, but Fulton seemed to be catching on, and the battle one at long range in the thirteenth, and earned the round. The fourteenth was even.

Boston Man Falls Down.

In the fifteenth Flynn fell to the floor after missing a hard right, and Fulton won the round by hard work. Fulton won the sixteenth and staggered Flynn with a hard left to the jaw. Flynn fought desperately in the seventeenth and won the round by a shade, but Fulton won the eighteenth, nineteenth, and twentieth rounds easily.

Some questioned Referee Tommy Burns' decision, but he said that Fulton hit the hardest and cleanest blows, whereas Flynn's best blows were jabs and hooks.

MISKE BEATS JACK DILLON.

Superior, Wis., Jan. 28.—(Special.)—Billy Miske of St. Paul outpointed Jack Dillon of Indianapolis tonight. In the sixth and tenth Dillon showed some of the speed expected of him, but to his surprise he found Miske able to fight back just as hard and viciously as he could himself. Miske was much the faster of the two and he kept hammering away at Jack's iron jaw, but seemingly to no effect.

WALLACE TO BOX PALMER.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 27.—A double-header of two ten round bouts will be the feature at next Monday night's boxing show at the National A. C. here. Young Wallace, a local lightweight, will battle with Benny Palmer of Memphis.

Palmer will tackle Art Magrini of Oklahoma. In the third best Pesenti of Rock Island is booked with Eddie Boehms. The opener will bring together Johnny Klotz of Milwaukee and Battling Hurley.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—President Menocal of Puerto Rico of Havana has agreed upon the 1920 Olympic games to be held in Havana, Cuba, and the city council, under the leadership of Mayor Ysern, has agreed to support the plan. Meanwhile they are in the city of Havana, president of the games, to hold Havana.

A. A. U. MAT EVENTS CREATE CHAMPIONS IN THREE DIVISIONS

Three new Central A. A. U. wrestling champions were unseated last night at the first batch of the title matches in the Illinois A. C. gymnasium. William Hallas won the honors in the welterweight class by defeating M. Cohen in the final bout, after an interesting struggle in which the latter was disqualified for putting tactics.

John Vores of the Greek Olympic A. C. won the honors in the 125 pound division by winning the fifteen minute decision over T. A. Waaga of the Illinois A. C. while Morris Nygaard of the Danish-American A. C. had only one contender to defeat to win the title in the light-heavyweight division. His opponent was T. A. Waaga of the Illinois A. C., and the Dane won the verdict in 6:33 with further arm and head lock.

Hallas-Cohen Bout Rough.

The bout for the championship of the 145 pound, or welterweight, division was the feature one. Hallas and Cohen worked their other rough trick known to the game. Finally Bolger awarded the bout to Hallas after thirteen minutes, because of putting tactics on the part of Cohen. The crowd crawled through the ropes with a bad crash over his right eye.

The remaining batch of title bouts, those in the 115, 135, 155, and heavyweight classes, will be decided in the Tricolor gymnasium tonight. Following are the summaries of last night's bouts:

MAROONS TAKE MEET FROM PURDUE, 46-39; LOWER TRACK MARKS

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 28.—(Special.)—Chicago had a hard time defeating Purdue in their annual indoor track meet, the final score being 46-39 to 39-1-3. It took the relay to decide the meet. Before that event the Maroons were only two points in the lead.

Three new records for the Purdue gym were established. Capt. Campbell of Purdue set a new mark of 4:30 1-5 in the mile run. Atkins of Purdue was a sensation in the two mile, which he negotiated in 9:59. Van Alken of Purdue also broke a record when he ran the half mile in 2:03. In the dashes the visitors won nearly all the places, but in the hurdles Purdue was superior. Diamond and Stout, Chicago stars, were out of the meet. Summaries:

Mile run. Won by F. F. Campbell, Purdue; Newman, Purdue, second; Yare, Purdue, third. Time 4:30 1-5.

Two mile run. Won by Atkins, Purdue; Van Alken, Purdue, second; Stout, Chicago, third. Time 9:59.

Half mile run. Won by Van Alken, Purdue; Clark, Chicago, second; Campbell, Purdue, third. Time 2:03.

Shot put. Won by Crow, Purdue; Arbuckle, Purdue, second; Crow, Purdue, third. Distance 40 ft. 10 in.

Two mile run. Won by Atkins, Purdue; Van Alken, Purdue, second; Stout, Chicago, third. Time 9:59.

Half mile run. Won by Van Alken, Purdue; Clark, Chicago, second; Campbell, Purdue, third. Time 2:03.

Pole vault. Won by Clark, Chicago; Warner, Chicago, second; Benedict, Purdue, and Moore, Chicago, tied for third. Height 11 feet.

SETS WORLD'S ROLLER MARK.

A. R. Edginton of Chicago set a new world's roller skating mile record in a time last at the Riverview rink last night when he completed the distance in 2:29 1-5, improving the former mark by 1-15 seconds. Clarence Hamilton covered the distance in 2:27 5-8 Aug. 8, 1900. Edginton made his record with the assistance of four pacemakers, each going a quarter of a mile. Edginton will go after the two mile mark next Tuesday.

In the half mile amateur championship event William Kerber won in 1:16 2-5. Forty skaters competed and the field was split into three heats, Kerber winning the first, Frank Bork the second, and Harry Palmer the third.

In the city mile championship Kerber also won in 2:41 2-5, with Bork second and Palmer third.

Ex-Ball Stars to Meet.

Ball players on practice and old city league teams of Chicago before 1895 will get together at a veterans' banquet planned by Lon Gertiech. The former semi-pro manager is listing the old timers, and has asked to have the local players of bygone days address him at 804 Archer avenue. Charles Comiskey, Robert Switzer, Al Tarnier, John Burke, Al Coughlin, Ed Littler, and Ed Hauge are supporting the plan. No date or place for the banquet has been set until a poll of the veterans is made.

REVIVE INDOOR MEETS FOR CHICAGO PREPS; DRAFT BASKET RULES

BY OTTO A. ENGEL.

Chicago high school athletes will engage in senior and junior championship indoor meets this season after a lapse of a year due to failure of the board to make plans for meets in 1915. The preliminaries will be held in Bartlett gymnasium March 4 and the finals in the same place March 18. Only one preliminary meet will be arranged, according to the program mapped out by Chairman Meyers, and no more than twelve boys will be allowed to qualify for the finals in any event.

The rope climb, added to the list of competition three years ago, will be dropped this season because of lack of interest in that strenuous contest. As a substitute the juniors will engage in the pole vault. The 220 yard dash also will be dropped for both classes, as the gymnasium track will permit only time competition.

Recognize Hockey League.

Hockey was officially recognized as a league sport when five schools asked permission to engage in the game. President Suffern then appointed Willard, Kinney, and Percival as members of the new committee to handle the contest.

Chairman Willard recommended several changes in the basketball rules which will be applied when the league season opens next week. All weighing in of the bantam and lightweight players must be done in the presence of a faculty member and no player will be allowed to weigh in more than once before each game. As a result any player over the poundage limit will not be allowed time to reduce his weight before game time.

Basket Games by Quarters.

As basketball will be played in quarters, the board ruled that the intermission between the first and second quarters be regarded as the start of the second period and the time before the third and fourth quarters as the beginning of the final quarter. Since substitutions are allowed only at the beginning of quarters, this rule was made to prevent disputes.

Englewood High was recognized officially as champion of the heavy-weight soccer league and Hyde Park as titleholder in the bantamweight division.

MAROON QUINTET TO PLAY WISCONSIN FIVE TONIGHT.

Wisconsin and Chicago basketball players will clash in Bartlett gymnasium tonight in a conference game. The Badgers are close on the heels of Illinois, and fans do not consider them out of the running because they get another crack at the champions in Madison next month.

PEOPLE UNITED IN SCANDINAVIA; DON'T WANT WAR

Sweden Protests Illegal Acts on Seas of Both Britain and Germany.

(By the Scandinavian Correspondent of The Tribune.)

CHRISTIANIA, Jan. 13.—The old year has passed and the new has made its entrance under conditions very much alike in the northern European countries. If any change has taken place it is an increased feeling of solidarity between Norway, Sweden, and Denmark.

There has been a friction between Sweden and Britain over the latter's commerce policy, but the activity of German submarines and torpedo destroyers in Swedish water, with accompanying interference with Swedish merchant ships, has brought about a rather strong resentment against the war policy of Germany as applied to Swedish interests.

There is no reason to believe in view of the policy heretofore followed by the Scandinavian countries in regard to the unwarranted interference with and sinking of neutral ships in lawful trade that they will lead to any serious consequences.

We are in about the same position as America when it comes to dealing with problems of this kind. We do not wish to get into war and for the time being the only thing that can be done in regard to the unlawful methods of German and British warfare is to make a protest on legal and moral grounds.

Ford Party Is Finished.

The Ford expedition has practically passed out of existence and its history from the time it left Christiania until its arrival at The Hague has not been a glorious one. Its reception in Stockholm was but little more enthusiastic than in Christiania, and in Copenhagen it was, if possible, worse than at any of the other two places.

This could not be avoided the moment Mr. Ford and Gov. Hanne left the company, and it is nearly impossible to find any one here even among those who sympathized with Mr. Ford's mission who can understand why the expedition was not dissolved the moment its leader was compelled to return home.

Of the other leaders Gov. Hanne was the only one whose name was known here and who could appear with any sort of authority. He left the expedition in Christiania and went directly to Copenhagen, where he was taken seriously ill. That was a double reason for the other members to have followed their leaders home.

As it is, the cause of universal peace has not been well served by this undertaking and it is a pity that so much good faith, so much honesty of purpose and noble intentions should be wasted in this hopeless manner.

Norwegian Shipping Grows.

The merchant ship tonnage of Norway during the last year, in spite of many ships sent to the bottom by German torpedoes, has increased about 170,000 tons, bringing it up to a total of 1,730,000, which is the record in Norwegian shipping history.

At the same time the value of the tonnage has increased on an average of about 200 per cent, or something like $125 a ton. The demand for tonnage is increasing, and ship owners can get almost anything they desire, whether it is a question of sale or freight.

New shipping companies are started every day, and there is not a craft so old and worn that it cannot find a purchaser and be used as a basis for a new stock company.

The government has taken measures to restrict the worst form of speculation, and the Bank of Norway has limited the loans on shipping stock to normal values.

Still, stock subscriptions are going merrily on, and the offices of the stock brokers are always crowded with people eager to get rid of their money, of which there seems to be no lack.

Society Women Get Stage Fright

BY CINDERELLA.

NOTHING that women are doing now in the way of study in classes produces such cold chills as the class in public speaking. Not even the First Aiders with their greswome glimpses of operations and gore and surgical knives receive such electrifying shocks as the women who have to stand up in Prof. Nelson's class and make their two minute speeches.

ing Mrs. Frank Letts has given her drawing room at 1000 Lake Shore drive Wednesday afternoons at 8 for the women who are public speakers, and Prof. Nelson, who had the class two years ago at Mrs. Bowen's, is the instructor.

There are about twenty in the class now, among them Mrs. William J. Calhoun, Mrs. Tiffany Blake, Mrs. Baum, Mrs. McCormick Blair, Miss Root, Miss Suresett, Mrs. Everett, Mrs. Cassius, Mrs. Mrs. Har-

In their last lesson the class was asked to read several pages of a book and make a two minute speech from it.

Usually the members come prepared and are told beforehand to be grave, or moving, or merry, or to make their hearers cry into their handkerchiefs, or convincing, or something or other.

Each speaker has to stand up and face this audience of her peers, and at Mrs. Bowen's class such accomplished presiding officers as Mrs. Cyrus McCormick and Mrs. Arthur Aldis admitted that they often quail with dread of the ordeal. It seems that Prof. Nelson is no mean critic of his pupils. It seems, also, from the number of poor speeches one hears coming and going in various societies, that this class might be much larger. Then perhaps so many obvious things wouldn't be explained or so many commonplace things expatiated upon. Preparedness is the thing in speeches as in war.

Mrs. Lettis, who is a good presiding officer, as well as good to look at, has a new interest in public speaking, as she has recently been elected president of the woman's board of the Passavant hospital, a position that Mrs. Joseph Coleman has occupied for many years. Mrs. Coleman is ill just at present and in a few days with Mr. Coleman is going to Pass Christian for the late winter.

Mr. Coleman's daughter, Mrs. Howard Cople, has recently been from her country place near Trenton for a short visit. This country place, where the Cople's live all the year, is considered the most magnificent place in Jersey and is on a scale only known to the great English estates.

SEARS-ROEBUCK
SET NEW RECORD
WITH 1915 SALESNet Business Was $106,228, 420 and Net Profits Made Increase of 22 Per Cent.

Gross sales of Sears, Roebuck &amp; Co. for the fiscal year ended Dec. 31, 1915, were $112,487,777. Departmental sales amounted to $6,487,777, an increase of $1,000,000, or 10.8 per cent, compared with 1914. The figure makes a record. Net profits for the year increased $2,000,000, or 22 per cent.

In April, 1915, the company increased its common stock from $40,000,000 to $60,000,000 through a stock dividend charged against surplus. Since the new stock was not sold until the earnings for 1915 were reported, the earnings for 1915 were not increased by the sale of the new stock. The earnings for 1915 were $1,000,000, or 10.8 per cent, compared with 1914. The figure makes a record. Net profits for the year increased $2,000,000, or 22 per cent.

NEWS OF THE FINANCIAL WORLD

One eastern commentator said yesterday that the railroad stocks are being made to look weak in order that the largest interest in the industry may have an opportunity to retire commitments. A distinct line of difference is appearing between the railroads and industries, which is somewhat confirmed this. While we doubt recovery due to retirements of shorts on good news like that of the success of the New York state bond sale to hold their faith, we are not entirely convinced that a big break is certain to come before a permanent recovery occurs. The fact that most of the active trading element now apparently holds that opinion.

The market closed weak, although not extremely active. Crucible Steel was the one specialty that made an advance of consequence, although its position is such that the movement of the shares is of small consequence. The railroad list under moderate pressure, and the auto market is not so active. The volume of foreign held securities offered for sale in the New York market is a continuing one that operates to restrain bullish activity.

According to automobile interests, the demand for machines continues in excess of expectations. Among the popular cars delivered are not being promised, it is said, within a month to six weeks. One New York dealer is said to have in the entire month of January, 1916. However, New York is hardly an index of trade throughout the country, since the six months' hold campaign in stocks and promotions has made New York City a center of financial activity and profit.

In 1915 profits of the United States Rubber company are reported to have been between 8 and 10 percent for the common, after providing for the interest on the $100,000,000 bonded debt. It is thought probable nothing will be paid on the common during either 1916 or 1917. The amounts applicable to the common shares will be turned into working capital and reduction of the floating debt.

The reorganization committee of the Chicago and Milwaukee Electric company has held a meeting and gone over the various plans for lifting the reorganization.

EVERY EXHIBIT IN PLACE UNTIL
AUTO SHOW ENDS

Manufacturers Eager to Return to Factories to Watch Construction.

BY L. M. STEFFENS.
Prosperously, the sixteenth annual automobile show will reach its glorious end tonight. A greater exhibit of motor vehicles was never seen in Chicago before. In the seven days of the exhibition the aisles of the Coliseum and the other show buildings have been crowded with a phenomenal attendance of motor enthusiasts. More cars have been sold than heretofore, and the interests affiliated with the automobile industry are consequently more than pleased with the results derived from Chicago's buying crowds.

Despite the eagerness of the manufacturers and dealers to hurry home and begin to reap the benefits of the show week there will be no indications of a let down until the official closing hour tonight. Up to 10:30 p. m. not a car will be moved from its display position nor a detail of decoration touched.

Can't Estimate Attendance.
Officials of the National Automobile show announced that it would be impossible to estimate the attendance and sales figures for the big week until late today.

"It is like measuring the water at flood tide," commented Manager Samuel A. Miles. "This show staggers my imagination. We are kept busy enough accommodating the public at our gates and the resumé of great things accomplished must be postponed until quieter hours. Satisfaction is so widespread that words are superous at this time. The automobile is king."

Indicate Expansion.

"As an indication, of what the automobile business is going to be during the months to come, it has made us all most optimistic," said J. J. Cole, president of the Cole Motor company. "Further than that, it has given the American manufacturer of motor cars more confidence in himself and his product. He has been able to compare the native motor with its foreign competitor to subject both to closer analysis than ever before—and by so doing has established to his utmost satisfaction that as a producer of motor cars America has nothing to fear from countries across the seas."
